

SILENT CONFERENCE

THE NEW TECH THAT'S CHANGING CONFERENCES

"Silent Conferences are the Future. Here's Why." We humans love a comfortable routine. But occasionally an advance is made (either in technology or processes), that moves the needle so far ahead that we can't help but wonder how we accepted mediocrity for so long. (Ketchup in squeeze bottles and wheels on luggage come to mind as two obvious examples).

When it comes to conferences, trade shows, and conventions, Silent Conference is improving the overall experience for both event producers and attendees. By leveraging wireless headphones and proprietary technology, multiple presentations occur in the same space and deliver a vastly improved experience to attendees. Their approach results in reduced cost and downtime, a streamlined setup, and fully mobile capability for remote locations.

"It was like having a personal conversation with every member of the audience. If only every talk I did meant I could engage the audience in the same way."

- Keynote Speaker, Veterinary Industry

"I found myself completely absorbed by the talk."

- Delegate, International Software Conference

By utilizing the Silent Conference fully immersive audio experience, attendees are able to improve their focus and engagement, and retain more information. With over 30 fully-customizable channels to choose from, presentations can be broadcast in multiple languages simultaneously, using live translators or pre-prepared multilingual audio tracks. This approach removes language barriers and optimizes conferences with varied nationalities.

While the idea of a silent event isn't new, past attempts failed due to insufficient equipment. Silent Conference met this challenge by developing exclusive technology, and since the unveiling have garnered rave reviews from event producers, speakers, and attendees.

"Hosting four speakers inside our busy trade halls meant we didn't have to book extra breakout rooms. Keeping everything together boosted the atmosphere."

- Event Organizer, Leading Supplier of Sanitary Ware

"Holding smaller, more intimate sessions in one space really worked for us – our delegates loved it too."

- Senior Manager, Intl. Accountants

Silent Conference is disrupting the industry and changing the way we think about conferences, trade shows, corporate meetings, and conventions. With over 95% of their clients booking additional events with Silent Conference within 12 months, it's clear that they're here to stay.
